NO. NO. PROFESSOR.
DOLE AND BREAD LINE.

Professor Einstein urges the United States to prevent wars.

How should the United States prevent wars, which start in Europe, or elsewhere, outside of the United States?

Should we become mixed up in them, and again send 10 billions of dollars, and three millions of men, as we did last time? No, thanks.

How could we prevent them? An Italian is arrested in France with plans of an important French naval base, and other plans for destruction of that base with Italian airplanes.

A smaller spark than that has started a war. Could we prevent it?

A foolish old farmer hitched himself up in a yoke with a bull calf, and, as he went down hill, yelled: "Stop us, somebody." He should not have hitched himself up.

Europe should not go to war, and Prof. Einstein should not expect us to prevent the nations from fighting each other.

That is their business, not ours. He would not say: "I wish some American would prevent my fighting a friend in Poland."

Congressman Tilson says the McNary bill is the "dole" in disguise. For some reason, every professional "100 per cent American" seems to have a horror of the dole.

Is the dole so much worse than the bread line? Is it better to let a man stand in line two or three hours to get a miserable cup of coffee and a piece of bread than to give him and his family, without waste, and directly, enough to keep from starving—that is, if you really want to keep him from starving.

Why worry so much about the dole if you have conditions that demand it?

By the way, Senator Borah warns this government that, if it insists on boycotting Russia, and hampering trade with Russia, somebody else will get the trade that Russia, with decent treatment, would give to us. And if that happens, according to Senator Borah, we really shall have the dole. Wisely he advised developing, not restricting trade. The Soviet with its theories is no worse than the Czars, with their knout.

For your health's sake remember the statement of an able doctor: "Sugar is the best muscle food." The heart is a muscle and if illness has weakened that muscle, see that you have plenty of sugar or of food or drink containing sugar.

If you are tired in the afternoon, a piece of chocolate, or a pure candy, or a drink well sweetened, will help to dispel fatigue and supply renewed vigor.

The man or woman past 50, according to the late doctor Murphy, great Chicago surgeon, should find time in the middle of the day or early afternoon for a nap, however short. Ten or even five minutes will restore nervous energy and prolong life.

It was because he would not take his own advice, and moderate his ceaseless working that Dr. Murphy died too young.

OUTSIDE JACA, SPAIN, Dec. 13.—(Via Telephone to Paris)—Loyal government troops delivered a crushing blow to the Jaca Revolutionary forces today in a short, furious encounter near Ayerbe, a short distance from Jaca.

Two columns of federal troops were drawn up and point blank artillery fire was opened on the rebel columns.

Officials estimated the dead and injured at 100.

Many civilian and military insurgents were captured and government officials considered the insurrection virtually ended as the other rebels fled to the mountains.

(By Associated Press) MADRID, Dec. 13.—Ten thousand troops in full field equipment have gone into action against the revolting garrison at Jaca in the North of Spain, converging upon the frontier town of Ayerbe where rebellious infantry and artillery engaged a loyal detachment in a battle at daybreak this morning.

So far as could be learned in the face of demoralized communications, the mutiny had not spread beyond the Province of Huesca where the rebels, variously estimated at between 1,000 and 6,000, had massed their forces.

Government Confident The mutineers, censured information indicated, had only such arms and equipment as could be seized in the Jaca garrison, and the government professed confidence that the revolt would be put down speedily.

DRY OFFICERS ARREST 40 IN LIQUOR DRIVE

Raids In Toledo

(By International News Service) TOLEDO, Dec. 13.—Thirty-five men and five women, arrested here by 55 federal prohibition agents from four states during a sweeping raid on more than 250 reputed speakeasies in this city, were to be questioned today by federal authorities who are seeking evidence for their allegations that a large graft ring, which collects $1,000,000, annually, is in existence.

Will Involve "Higher-Ups" Testimony expected from the persons arrested at the liquor establishments will involve many prominent city and state officials, according to Colonel J. L. Reese of Detroit, Mich., special department of justice operative who ended a six-month investigation of Toledo bootleg activities with the raids.

Lee N. Murlin, assistant United States district attorney, who is co-operating with department of justice agents in ridding the city of its liquor traffic, announced that no arrests of police officers and other "higher ups," who are believed to be involved in the graft ring, will be made until indictments are returned by the federal grand jury.

"Protection" Is Charged Gambling and vice interests, as well as the reputed bootleg joints, have been paying tribute for protection against raids, federal officials declared they discovered. Leaders of the drive stated that some of the bootleggers and gamblers have been paying from $100 to $500 a month for the privilege of operating unmolested.

ARMY AND NAVY ELEVEN CLASH IN CHARITY TILT

Battle Of Service Teams
Expected To Net
$1,000,000

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The 31st football clash between the Army and Navy today gives the unemployed a helping hand to the extent of three-quarters of a million dollars. Some 70,000 persons purchased tickets for the Yankee stadium.

There were strong hopes that receipts not only from ticket sales but from incidental concessions might swell to a total of $1,000,000. Whatever the total, football history can point to no previous game involving such prodigious financing.

Navy Win Boosts Sale Navy's smashing triumph over Pennsylvania last week did more than all the publicity in the world to start a spurt in ticket sales. The midshipmen revealed a smoothly working, powerful attack and a rugged defense against Penn and their stock took a sharp rise.

Another factor in the swing toward the Navy was the conviction, held in some quarters, that the army could not hope to regain the form the cadets showed against Notre Dame when they bowed by a one-point margin. Army also has been weakened by injuries, but still loomed a formidable machine for any opposition.

Car Is Hurlled 100 Feet
After Impact With Locomotive

(By United Press) WADSWORTH, Dec. 13.—Three persons were killed and two others were injured, perhaps fatally, today, when two Erie locomotives drawing a caboose, struck their automobile at a crossing here.

Those killed were also Aver, 29; his daughter, Donna, 6, and Virgil "Wolf," 35, a boarder at the Aver home.

Aver's wife, 28, and another daughter, Evelyn, 7, were injured so critically that physicians held little hope for her recovery.

Deputy Marshal Harvey Weldy, who witnessed the crash, said the automobile was hurled 100 feet, making a high arc through the air. Other motorists helped him extricate the bodies.

Weldy said the locomotives were traveling at high speed but that they sounded warning whistles. He said Aver, who was driving, apparently believed he could beat them to the crossing.

Returning to the courtroom at 4:43, the jury's verdict was submitted to Clerk of Courts John A. Noble who handed it to Judge Lones. A death-like silence prevailed as Judge Lones read the verdict. The defendant fainted while her parents, seated in chairs near her daughter, wept.

EIGHT BALLOTS TAKEN BY JURY IN MURDER CASE

Salem Woman Faints As Fate Is Made Known
In Court

DEFENSE TO ASK FOR NEW TRIAL

Charge Carries One to 20
Years In Marysville
Reformatory

Mary Tinney, 22, of Salem, was found guilty of manslaughter in a verdict returned by a jury of three women and nine men in common pleas court, Lisbon, late Friday afternoon. The jury deliberated two hours and 13 minutes, during which eight ballots were taken.

The Salem woman, against whom an indictment of murder in the second degree had been returned by the September grand jury, fainted when the verdict was read.

Counsel for the defense will be allowed three days in which to file motion for a new trial.

Charged With Murphy's Death The defendant was charged with having fired the shot which resulted in the death of Frank Murphy, 32, also of Salem, at a party held at the home of Peter Dragich, 187 West State st., last July 12. A signed statement in which she admitted having shot Murphy was used by state's attorneys to obtain conviction.

She is believed to be the first Columbiana county woman convicted on a manslaughter charge, one which carries a penalty of one to 20 years in the Marysville reformatory for women. Her attorneys, George E. Farrell and Walter W. Beck, are expected to file a motion for a new trial by Monday. An appeal against execution of sentence will also be filed should the court deny the new trial, it was announced in Lisbon today.

Judge W. F. Lones, in charging the jury, informed the nine men and three women that it was possible for them to consider different degrees of the crime, ranging from second degree murder as returned against the defendant in the grand jury indictment to manslaughter, assault and battery, assault and not guilty. He completed his charge at 2:30 p. m. Thursday.

Drop Second Degree Count The jury voted to eliminate the second degree murder charge and passed ballots for a poll on the manslaughter count. The first ballot showed an eight to four vote for a verdict of guilty. The second ballot was nine to three and the third 10 to two for conviction. Three more ballots were taken with the same result until the seventh, which showed a vote of 11 to one for manslaughter. The lone negative vote for a not guilty verdict was eliminated on the next ballot, jurors voting for conviction in the manslaughter charge.

Returning to the courtroom at 4:43, the jury's verdict was submitted to Clerk of Courts John A. Noble who handed it to Judge Lones. A death-like silence prevailed as Judge Lones read the verdict. The defendant fainted while her parents, seated in chairs near her daughter, wept.

She was assisted from the courthouse by Sheriff William J. Barlow and Deputies William Virden and George Hays, following which she was returned to the county jail.

THE NEW DENATURANT

Dr. James M. Doran's announcement that a new non-poisonous denaturing element for alcohol has been discovered and will be used henceforth in the place of poisonous wood alcohol should be regarded as evidence of a forward step in general humanitarianism. Neither the dry nor the wets have any legitimate partisan claims to credit for the adoption of the element. It is of value in every civilized country in the world; its application to the prohibition problem in the United States is, in the long view, incidental.

The new substance, known as alcotate, is derived from petroleum undergoing the cracking process. It has the compound aroma of chloroform, benzene, overripe eggs, garlic and strong onions, repelling the drinker by its odor and resultant nausea instead of blinding or killing him. It will be placed in industrial alcohol in proportions of 1 per cent, in combination with an equal percentage of alcohol, also a petroleum product. The latter substance is used to denature industrial alcohol at present in combination with wood alcohol.

The primary consideration in denaturing industrial alcohol is, of course, to prevent it from being redistilled and diverted to illegal channels. From the beginning, excepting in the case of radical dyes, public opinion in the United States against the use of a poison, has been strong.

Enforcement officials, however, did not feel justified in abandoning wood alcohol until a suitable substitute was available. Alcotate, on which work was started three years ago, fills all the requirements. Dr. Doran is confident that bootleggers who attempt to redistill industrial alcohol treated with it will be foiled.

The opinion of the association of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment, as expressed in a resolution, is interesting in its bearing on public reception of the new denaturing element. The resolution reads as follows:

"The conference records its approval of the announcement by the treasury department of the new non-poisonous prohibition denaturant to replace wood alcohol and other poisonous denaturants used in European and American countries, and adopted in the United States about 50 years ago.

"The conference emphasizes again that prohibition carries with it no mandate to drink and therefore, even if the new denaturant has all the effects of a sea voyage, it is taken at the option of the drinker."

Sensible people will adopt a similar attitude. The dyes alone have lost nothing; the wets alone have won nothing. Humanity in general, however, has been given a valuable substance.

SLUGGERS AND SCIENCE

Out on the mound—it seems a hundred miles away—the pitcher is winding up slowly. He is ready. The ball comes whizzing down to the plate. Larger and larger it grows until all our hero can see is that white object coming toward him. He braces his body and takes a mighty swing with his trusty bat. A square hit. The ball rises swiftly up, up and out of sight over the fence. The stands go wild. A home run. In less time than it takes to tell it, our hero is back at the plate. Two runs have come in ahead of him. He is the hero of the game—at least until someone else knocks another one out of the box. The pitcher shakes his head sadly. Several years ago it might with luck have been a two-base hit. But with the lively ball and short field... over the fence it goes.

"I'm running an amusement enterprise," Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the hard-hitting New York Yankees reasoned the other day. "Why should I handicap the two greatest drawing cards on my team just because home run hitting is more difficult in some other ball parks?"

Apparently there is no plausible answer. The home run reform attempted this week in the interests of more scientific baseball by certain Major League club owners has been squelched effectively by certain other owners, who claim gate receipts during the last season showed that fans like to see lots of long hits. Fans who are more interested in good pitching and team play than in sluggers will have to stand by patiently until the majority of the paying customers come around to a more exacting point of view.

When the score stood 3-2 in the eighth and the heavy end of the batting order came up to drive in two more runs, one of them a homer, perhaps, no one objected. Today when the score stands 9-10 and the heavy hitters go wild with three or four home runs no one objects either. No, not yet. In the meantime scientific baseball will have to look out for itself.

What Others Say

"MORALIZING" LAWS

William Hard enumerates among the handicaps from which the United States is suffering an excess of the passion for enacting "moralizing" laws, that is to say, laws designed to protect the individual against his own folly, or against what the lawmakers happen to consider folly.

Something of the same thought evidently was in the mind of Dr. Hugh Jack, of Northminster Presbyterian church, Sunday, when he declared that all attempts to make people moral and sober, chiefly by law, have failed and must always fail. In that connection, the doctor's assertion that there is no precedent whatever in the life of Christ for recourse to compulsion, is particularly pertinent in view of the enthusiasm with which some of his followers are undertaking to substitute force for moral suasion.

History is full of proofs of the accuracy of Dr. Jack's position. The utter inefficiency of statutory provision as a moral power had been proven beyond possibility of successful contradiction long before Saul of Tarsus told the church at Corinth that "the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life."

Legislation for the regulation of personal habits and private conduct, can not be more of a blessing than an evil unless it reflects the strong, permanent mental and moral attitude of the people it is designed to regulate; and then it is superfluous, because then the power of public opinion is sufficient to keep most non-conformists in check. Where people fall into mistaken ways or plunge into injurious excesses, reform and progress must come, as Dr. Jack says, through appeal to reason and not through threat of law.

The one legitimate argument for adoption of the eighteenth amendment, the most notorious piece of "moralizing legislation" of modern times, was a belief that it would benefit the United States because it would crystallize the sentiment of the country and would be accepted cheerfully. It was not accepted, and the failure of its proponents to gain acquiescence from the nation was due chiefly to the circumstance that when a showdown in favor of practical application came, statutory bone dryness did not appeal to the public conscience. Perhaps it should have done so; but it did not.

Consequently the prohibition amendment and the enforcement acts pursuant thereto have been an injury to the United States instead of a benefit. Which is a conclusive argument for modification or repeal, as necessity may direct.

The former prohibition is, existing form is kept on the books, the more harm it does and the more helpless the cause of temperance, general public morality and common good order becomes.

The corruption effect of the status quo is commencing to extend even to those who presumably are among the most high-minded of its champions. Some of them, being ecclesiastics, are using their positions as spiritual leaders to obtain political leverage in Washington and elsewhere, and are resorting to speech, if not to actual deeds, to look a great deal like efforts to use duress. A few of these clergymen we fear, are even losing sight of their original objective, a reform for the good of the country, and now are more anxious to have their way than they are to see the emergence of a condition that will benefit the nation—Detroit Free Press.

NEW YORK

Day by Day

by O.O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—This is the day this column tries to be silly and gay. The week's work is ended, the town riveting stops at noon, the morning post-mail in Gailpolis—brings the pay check and life is otherwise pleasantly savored. On Saturday I usually garland my hair to skip and tra-la here and there.

Sometimes I stop and do a handstand on a water plug. I'm that happy. But not this Saturday. For one thing the Sealymph got into a box of old fashioned taffy during the night and the house is all stuck up and gooey. I'll likely have to be pried out of the chair I'm sitting in.

Yet every time I go out to avoid the fiasco, in disgrace under the kitchen table, he rolls over on his back, waves his paws tremendously on the air so friendly like. I lose heart. He "cutes" me with corners. The only solution is to hire some brute to scotch him.

To lie away from it all for a little time—and while gone my wife discovered the erring pooch had wiped his charleswannahugs on the parlor drapes—I dropped over to a nearby hotel to see a friend from out of town. I don't know why all hotel clerks hate me on sight, but they do.

Five minutes I walk up to the front desk they swell up with rage. I affix theater box office men the same way. Nobody is nicer or more self-effacing with a hotel clerk than I. Invariably I remove my hat, cough apologetically behind a hand and stand to one side and wait, nursing a parochial notion they will finally see me.

But no matter how occupied they are when I appear, they immediately find a dozen things to do. Not once have they at Palm Beach—have I ever spoken to one first and this digression was meekly to tell him a measuring worm was crawling up his collar. But today after 3 minutes I exploded. Clapping my hands together sharply like that—one, two, three—the monster in me springing to the fore, I cried: "See here. Is anyone going to pay attention to me around here or are they?" I get all balled up when excited that way and remember nothing until next day at noon. Often not until 4 o'clock.

One clerk detached himself, but catching a glimpse of his puss in passing a mirror, halted to give his face a quick yank, then coolly surveying his trititious nails ends inquired with a Voltairian profundity: "Yee-e-e-e-s?" And before I could tell him he was yelling to some passerby: "Hello, Roy, how's every little trick?" That type, I figured on my heel and stamp out. A nice way to treat a son of a hotel man who has patronized hotels since the good old days of roller tows.

And look. As though the day was not enough of a complete flop I had to annex a drunk on my way home. He lurched out of a subway exit, steadied himself and leered at me. "Nothing," he hiccuped, "sets a fella off like a nice pair of spats. What do you do for on cakes?"

I bore up bravely trying to look at ease, running the gauntlet of titters, but it is only a question of time until I have to give up frizzers or keep off the public highways. Any day they may quit hooting and start shooting.

Then there was the ensuing incident of the pocket lighter. For many weeks it has been sparking but nothing happens and if you want to be a town boy your lighter must work. I stopped in a Dunhill and told the "clerk" my dilemma. He looked at it, then looked at me. "How do you expect it to light," he inquired, "with no wick?" I should have thanked him but with the day's icks my hot blood steamed up and I belted: "Well, who put the wick in the thing in the first place?" Think that one over or absolute zero in zippy comebacks.

When I got home I told my wife I believed I was getting dotty. "Getting?" she replied, with an inquiring infection, and so I locked all the doors to my work-shop and have been sitting here pouting ever since. And when I pout I pout. My lips stick out and everything.

Outside, a mean, chilling grizzle falls. The clouds overhead are as dark as my thoughts. The room is becoming suffocatingly hot. A lot of good I am in this world. I have a notion to open a window—and set right smack in a draft.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

CROUP ATTACKS

One of the most painful experiences of childhood is the ailment formerly known as "membranous croup." We hear that name infrequently these days because now it is recognized as a mild form of diphtheria.

The symptoms of this condition are caused by an inflammation of the larynx, the windpipe, with the formation of a false membrane. It usually attacks the child between the ages of two and five years.

The attack may start as a cold does. There may be some fever, and general discomfort. It may come very suddenly in other cases.

In a sudden attack, which is apt to come on at night the child is awakened from sleep gasping for breath. The mucous membrane lining the throat is so swollen that scarcely any air can pass through. There is a sharp barking cough, with what is usually described as a metallic sound. "The fever" increases and the pulse is rapid.

Keep Cool

The child appears to be desperately sick. It is natural that the mother should feel terrified. But heroic measures should be taken at once, so she must be as calm as possible. The first thing to do is to send for a doctor. While awaiting his coming there are certain things to be done to give relief to the little sufferer.

Put the child in a hot bath at a temperature of about 100 degrees. Be careful not to have the water too hot, so as to scald the little patient. Try the heat of the water on your elbow to make sure it is safe for the child.

Keep the little patient in the bath for 15 to 20 minutes. At the same time cold compresses should be applied to the head.

In an older child a hot foot bath to which a teaspoonful of mustard has been added may be adequate to draw the blood from the upper part of the body. When this takes place it gives relief to the sufferer.

Prompt Treatment

The child is usually frightened at the extreme difficulty in breathing. He wants to be taken up and carried. Keep the child well wrapped and guarded against exposure. If taken from bed.

It may be necessary to apply a treatment known as "intubation." In this a tube is inserted in the throat, enabling the child to breathe. Fortunately this procedure is rare these days. Antioxin

The Stars Say

For Sunday, December 14

Sunday's horoscope may be considered as quite unpropitious for all workaday interests, with adverse conditions and vital menace to all not relating to the purely personal and private avocations. It would be wise to devote the day to religious, cultural, domestic social or affectional matters exclusively.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year of unforeseen change, with disruptive and disintegrating influences undermining the good prospects. While the energies will be at high pitch and aggressive, yet there may be many onslaughts of adversity and affliction to be resisted by wise counsel and calm premeditation. Refrain from investment, and beware of fraud and trickery. A child born on this day may be disposed to be nervous, changeable and, probably, reckless in its adventures and determination to overcome obstacles. It may require strict training and discipline as well as enlightenment.

MAKE PROGRESS IN EXTENSION OF WATERWAYS

Delegates Enroute Home After Conference in Washington

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—With the formation of a cooperative committee between waterway supporters of Pittsburgh and cities of the Mahoning and Shenango valley practically agreed upon, delegates to the national rivers and harbors congress from these points are returning home expressing opinions that substantial progress toward extension of the Ohio river system had been made.

With Organized Committee

Organization of the special committee designed to collect economic data for showing need of the proposed Lake Erie to Ohio River canal through Youngstown was proposed during a special meeting of Pennsylvania delegates.

Thomas J. Bray, president of the Beaver-Mahoning-Shenango rivers improvement association, and Frank Purnell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, agreed to join the committee subject to the action being confirmed at the next meeting of the association.

"We informed the Pittsburgh delegation, however, that we expect to keep our own proposition of extending slack water navigation to Youngstown and Warren alive as well," Purnell said.

Both Purnell and James Rae, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, expressed the belief that substantial progress was made during the two-day stay here.

Made Real Progress

"My judgment is that we have made real progress in coming to Washington, not only in having the opportunity of presenting the complete Lake Erie to Ohio river canal project to the convention, but in getting a favorable reaction from our senators and congressmen," Rae declared.

The Pittsburgh executive also said he was convinced that Major General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, is now fully cognizant of the economic necessity for the canal project, and that the conference of Pennsylvania and Ohio delegates held Wednesday with Representative J. Wallace Dempsey, chairman of the house rivers and harbors committee, would prove highly beneficial.

Officers Are Elected

During sessions of the rivers and harbors congress yesterday, E. C. Gibbs, of Cincinnati, was elected as vice-president for Ohio during the ensuing year and J. Frank Tilley of Pittsburgh, in a similar capacity, for Pennsylvania.

Newton A. Wolcott of Warren, Ohio, president of the Packard Motor Car company, was appointed on the committee on nominations from Ohio and Charles Orchard, of Pittsburgh, on the same committee for Pennsylvania. W. C. Cukins of Cincinnati, was selected for the resolution committee from Ohio and M. C. Morris for Pennsylvania.

Officers nominated to serve as directors included:

Carl J. Baer, Oscar F. Barrett and R. P. Gilliam of Cincinnati; James Reed of Warren; H. S. Warwick of Youngstown; Ernest B. Suter of Manchester, Louis Wirth of Columbus, Floyd Crandell and Clare B. Tefft of Toledo and E. E. Lawrence of Fairport.

Social Lights Cast Out of Register

The Enigmatical and Invisible Dictators Who Pass Judgment on the 18-Carat Elite of Society Have Sprung More Surprises Between the Leaves of the 1931 Catalogue

By ALICE ALDEN
NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Society is slowly recovering from its annual bout of indigestion, brought on by the appearance of the Social Register, and rendered acute by a perusal of the social Bible's contents.

This year there are plenty of surprises for the gossips. The most secretive and enigmatic committee responsible for the inclusion or omission of the various names have wielded the blue pencil with a vigor and with a rigorous watch. Some of the best names are cut just because they have got themselves separated via the legal route from a blue-blood in order to marry someone whose ancestors were not on the passenger list of the Mayflower.

To those humans who have a yen to climb on the social band wagon we offer consolation in the form of the names of those who have been socially disgraced by the blue book merely for marrying to secure happiness. To the Social Committee it is society that counts, not hearts and human happiness. And if there has been a scandal or two in any ordinary family, there is no committee to fling open the family cupboard and make the skeletons rattle.

Polly Lauder is one of those who has forfeited her place in the social register by her marriage to Gene Tunney. Just a glance at Polly's happy face should be sufficient to assure anybody just how badly she feels about that. Then there's William Willock, Jr., who married one of his mother's servants. The mother of young Willock not only forgave her son but furnished a home for Willie and his Swedish bride. But the Social Register isn't so forgiving, and young Willock is OUT.

When lovely golden-haired Eleanor Hutton, daughter of the enormously rich social leader, Mrs. E. F. Hutton, eloped with young Preston Sturges, author of "Strictly Dishonorable," she also relinquished her place in the social guide book. But Eleanor isn't worrying much, for she and Sturges are very happy.

It took some time though for some of Eleanor's relatives to crash the register and now every one is wondering whether the Franklin Kaufmans are listed by Louis G. Kaufman, the senior, their son, who married Dorothy Dilley, a dancer, is omitted. But here's the catch. Another son, Gray, who married Mae Daw, one of Zigfield's glorified, has his place in the book. The question is why did the committee show Louis the door and permit Gray to remain? Perhaps even the committee can answer that one.

Of course there are some cats who persist that enough millions and sufficient fighting spirit can in time enable their possessor to crash the gate. It must be so, or else why should so many of them fight tooth and nail to remain, once they have made the grade?

The late George Gould also epitomized a social register scandal. His first wife, Edith, although an actress, had been included in the register, but his second wife, Guinevere Sinclair, was never included. Gould married her after the death of his first wife in 1921 and because the affair had been an open scandal the second Mrs. Gould was never recognized by society or the Blue Book. When Gould died, Guinevere wedded Vincent Dunford, but up to now society has failed to receive her and in Europe she moves in a circle somewhat removed from the most exclusive.

If any family in New York should be able to give a lecture on the idiosyncrasies of the caty committee on the register, it is the Louis G. Kaufmans, the senior, their son, who married Dorothy Dilley, a dancer, is omitted. But here's the catch. Another son, Gray, who married Mae Daw, one of Zigfield's glorified, has his place in the book. The question is why did the committee show Louis the door and permit Gray to remain? Perhaps even the committee can answer that one.

Of course there are some cats who persist that enough millions and sufficient fighting spirit can in time enable their possessor to crash the gate. It must be so, or else why should so many of them fight tooth and nail to remain, once they have made the grade?

COMMON IDEAS ON EDUCATION FAIL TO HOLD

New Findings Brought To Light In Cleveland Project

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—Common ideas about the human mental machine and the mileage one can get from it are being turned topsyturvy here.

It has been discovered that persons who need education the most nowadays are college graduates who have been out of school long enough for their mental machinery to become rusty. It also has been discovered that youth can not be educated—just merely prepared for education.

These are the statements of Dr. Caswell Ellis, who is directing what in five years has become one of America's unusual educational experiments.

Started Five Years Ago

Five years ago a movement was started by civic leaders and Western Reserve University to give to thousands of Clevelanders who believed their early education inadequate, a chance to slip back into the classroom after working hours. Many wanted a place where they could keep abreast with the rapidly changing machine age.

Cleveland College was organized. Dr. Ellis was brought here as an authority on education, to become its director. The college was without a building. It had neither equipment nor endowment.

By the thousands Clevelanders of all ages flocked to it. They took a long list of varied subjects. These ranged from the care of infants in the testing period to the ancient Greek classics.

Today the building occupies a six-story building on Public Square. Nearly 8,000 students are on its roster.

Variety of Types

One of the unique aspects of the college is the variety of type enrolled. The socially elect mingle with the laboring class. There are the wives of a university professor and the man who swings a pick; the president of one of the foremost women's clubs, presidents of two bar associations, 200 business executives and 660 school and college teachers.

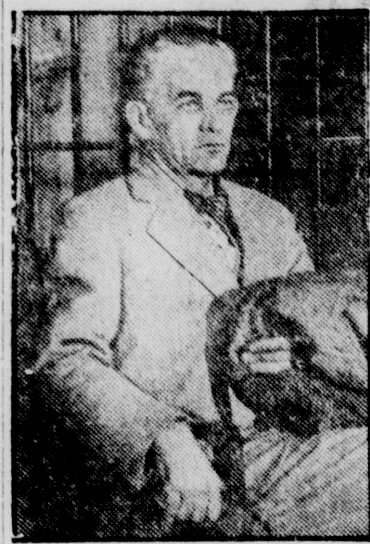

Even the roster of 8,000 is a small percentage of the best minds in Cleveland who need training, Dr. Ellis says.

"In our work with educating grownup people here, we have found that the college graduate needs adult training more than anyone," Dr. Ellis says, "this is because he probably has a greater native resource to be developed, and he has to adjust a much larger early training to the new problem of middle life."

"Society is losing a great deal from college men who are not getting adjusted as they go through middle life."

In dealing with the education of adults Dr. Ellis has found that only half a man's potentiality is mature enough to be trained before he is 21.

Faces Indictment as Budd Kidnaper

Dr. Albert Edward Corthell, a man of many aliases, was brought to New York from St. Louis to face an indictment for abduction. Corthell is suspected of being the kidnaper of Grace Budd, eleven-year-old school girl, who disappeared from her home accompanied by a strange man. Corthell claims he is a graduate of Harvard and a son of a distinguished Boston family.

WORK ON DEVICE TO GRADE TASTE OF EVERY FOOD

Colgate Students Experiment With New Thermometer

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 13.—A taste thermometer which will tell students working under Dr. Donald A. Laird, Director of the Colgate Psychological Laboratories, just how sweet a lump of sugar is or how sour a pickle, is being constructed here.

Based on taste tests of odorless and colorless solutions of varying degrees of sweetness, sourness, saltiness, and bitterness, the unique scale will aid the psychologists' study of how the tastes of different foods affect the moods and digestive processes of different eaters.

Great things are expected of the thermometer. It may prove that the taste of the food, rather than its chemical composition and protein content, is the best guide to healthful eating. It may show that sweetness, the most universally liked flavor, is a guide to the foods most needed for general health. It may put an end to calories-counting cooks. It may even show that the chocolate ice cream sodas are the best things in the world for little boys.

Solutions just barely perceptible will be listed at zero on the taste scale. Solutions so strong that their taste cannot be made perceptibly stronger will be placed at 100. All other solutions will be listed at intermediate points on the scale.

MELLON FAVORS NEW TAX RULING

Suggests Corporations Be Allowed To Deduct For Charity

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon yesterday asked congress to enact a law permitting corporations to deduct contributions to charity from their income tax returns. The proposed law would be effective on returns from July 2, 1930, to June 30, 1931.

After receiving Mellon's request, Republican Hawley (R) of Oregon, introduced a bill to carry it out.

Mellon said:

"In view of these existing emergencies (unemployment and the business depression) and the fact that corporations, as well as individuals should be encouraged to contribute liberally to relief organizations, I believe that it would be advisable for the time being to allow corporations the same deductions as are allowed individuals in respect of gifts made exclusively for charitable or unemployment emergency relief purposes."

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN.

Rev. George D. Keister, pastor. (All services held at the Memorial building on East State St.) Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.—(Acts 22:3-15) H. E. Smith, supt.

The word impossible cannot be applied when we are dealing with the conversion of sinners. Hearts may be hardened with sin, lives may be brazen with fellowship with the works of the devil, but the grace of God may enter into even such lives and bring them into the Kingdom of Christ. The conversion of Paul is the eternal example of what Christ can do with even His bitterest enemies. Sinners can not boast of their permanent hatred of God. The Church of Our Savior needs to be courageous in leading men and women in the way of salvation.

Morning worship 11:00.

Sermon: "The Mighty Jesus"

A superficial knowledge of Christ the Savior might leave the impression that it was a helpless Redeemer that came in the form of a tiny infant. Those who attempted to thwart the plan of God, found out that a mighty Jesus this was. The forerunner, John the Baptist, under the inspiration of God, told of one who was to come after him. The reign and rule of sin in some quarters seems to be beyond the power of God. This advent season reminds us again of the nature and irresistible power of Jesus Christ, in whose church we worship, work and live. Courage comes to every Christian when these facts are known are realized.

Morning Prayer and sermon 11.

"Stewards of the Mysteries of God"—that is St. Paul's interpretation of the work of Christian minister. And when we connect this interpretation with the Advent call to prepare the world for Christ's second coming, we have a great message. For how is the world to be prepared for Christ's coming? Not by visible things, force, war, or great deeds, but by the story of God's love through Christ, by changed hearts and lives, by faith and prayer. And these are mysteries—that is, things not measured by eye or held by hand, but things spiritually discerned. The spiritual part of us is the highest part, breathed into our bodies and minds by God. It is unseen, but eternal.

Hot Bread for Breakfast
Fragrant hot bread—like the aroma of hot coffee—is a cheering bid for breakfast on occasion. Not as a regular diet, of course, for it is not recommended as a daily feature, hot breads being admittedly less wholesome than raised bread, a day old. Here are a few which can be made quickly, and are quite tasty.

Hot Raisin Bread
1½ cups flour
½ cup sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup raisins
1 cup milk
2 eggs

3 tablespoons melted butter
Sift the dry ingredients together, then add the eggs beaten with milk, the melted butter, vanilla and raisins. Pour into oiled shallow pan. Bake in moderate oven half an hour.

If a sweet bread is popular, spread the top, before placing in the oven, with a little white of egg unbeaten, then sprinkle with a mixture of granulated sugar and cinnamon and bits of butter.

An Old Recipe.
1 cup cornmeal
1 cup flour
4 tablespoons baking powder
4 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
1½ cups milk
2 eggs

Sift flour, cornmeal, baking powder and salt. Mix beaten eggs with melted butter and milk, then add the dry ingredients. Pour into a buttered shallow baking tin, and bake in a moderate oven for about half an hour.

ARMY AND NAVY ELEVENS CLASH

Battle Of Service Teams Expected To Net $1,000,000

Interest as the players themselves, were the corps of cadets and the regiment of midshipmen whose maneuvers have added much to the color of previous Army-Navy games. Numerous notable from official Washington were here for the game but most of the crowd was made up of just plain fans who had paid anywhere from $5 to $50 for their seats, the nearer the 50-yard line the higher.

Army and Navy met 20 times on the gridiron before the break in relations after the 1927 game. Army won 15 of these games, Navy 12 and three were tied. The 1927 game was won by the Army, 14-9, chiefly through the exploits of "Lighthorse Harry" Wilson.

Kick-Off At 1 P. M.

The march of the cadets opens the ceremony at 12:15 o'clock with the Navy maneuvers following immediately afterwards. The kickoff was set for 1 p. m.

Among those who came from Washington for the game were Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war; Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the Navy; General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the Army; Admiral W. B. Pratt, chief of naval operations, and Allen Hoover, son of the president. President Hoover was unable to attend.

As a colorful spectacle, today's game outshone even previous Army-Navy clashes. Not only was there the customary parade of the cadets and midshipmen into the stadium, but both schools prepared unusual stunts for their cheering sections.

The weather was clear and cold.

Hog Prices Are Favorable In Comparison With Corn

Figures Listed In Bulletin Issued By Ohio Farm Unit

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Dec. 13.—Hog prices are very favorable at this time in comparison with corn prices, according to a bulletin issued here today by the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation.

The bulletin continues that the corn-hog ratio for Ohio is 12.8, which means that 100 pounds of live hogs will buy 12.8 bushels of corn.

Conditions are even more favorable in the western part of the corn belt. The corn-hog ratio for Iowa is 14.5 as compared with 12.8 for Ohio.

A corn-hog ratio so distinctly in favor of hog feeding might ordinarily be expected to lead to expansion in the number of hogs. It experts in agriculture, and then farmers themselves, were in a time of normal financial conditions there would be no question but what an increase would be noticed within the next year or year and a half. But, in view of the acute need for money in many sections of the hog feeding area, there will be a tendency to sell hogs rather than retain them for breeding herds.

A year ago the Ohio corn-hog ratio was 11.3. As it took the Iowa ratio was 11.3. As it took the Iowa ratio was 11.3. As it took the Iowa ratio was 11.3.

Ohio corn averaged on November 15 at the farm 67 cents per bushel, and wheat was reported by the government at 75 cents a bushel. The average oats price was only 33 cents; and the rye average was 63 cents a bushel.

Corn farmers were receiving at the middle of November an average of $8.60 per 100 pounds of hogs sold. This is only 30 cents under a year ago in November and only 20 cents less than the 1928 average.

LOYALS BATTLE REVOLT FORCES
Government Foes Believed To Be Massed Within Huasca Province

That the uprisings had extended to Saragosa, where Major Ramon Franco, the picture show aviator, was said to be at the head of the movement, but virtually all telephone and telegraph communication with that area was cut off.

There were rumors also that the rebels were holding six federal officers as hostages, threatening summary execution if loyal troops moved into the province. The report was that these captives had been made marched from Jaca to Avera, where a night march preceded this morning's battle.

Madrid In Tension
Madrid remained in almost complete ignorance of the true state of affairs, although the authorities insisted that the trouble had been confined to the region in Huasca about Jaca. If it had spread to Saragosa, the uprising was considered to have assumed a much more serious aspect, such as that city is the gateway to a considerable number of rebel troops.

The city government today complied with a government order and completely shut off the story.

The Huasca country in which the fighting appeared to center is a rugged mountainous region in the grip of a severe cold wave. Snow has fallen within the last day or so over much of the territory the rebels must traverse before reaching the rebel stronghold.

CITY LEAGUE COURT SEASON SCHEDULED TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

THE DAY In Sports

SALEM HIGH HOLDS EDGE
RENEW GRID RELATIONS

Four Teams Entered In Class A Circuit; First Games Tuesday

Salem municipal basketball leagues will get under way for the first week's play in the 1930-31 season starting Monday night. J. M. Kelley, manager of the Memorial A league, announced today. Four teams will compete in the Class A circuit with about 12 teams entered in the Class B loop.

Two games will be played in the Class A league Tuesday night, the McArthur Electric being scheduled to battle the R. E. Grove Electric while the Golden Eagle, 1929-30 city champions, clash with the Electric Furnace in the first game. The Class B league opens Monday.

Play Twice Weekly
Games will be played in the Class A league every Tuesday and Thursday night as in past seasons with play governed by the Salem athletic arbitration board. All teams must have complete players' lists compiled and submit them to Kelley prior to the opening game.

Four strong teams will be entered in the major league. The Grove Electric have won two straight decisions over opposing league aggregations trimming the Golden Eagle and the Florists in two hard-fought battles here. The Electric are composed entirely of former Salem High stars and are rated as one of the leading titular contenders.

Golden Eagle Favored
The Golden Eagle is favored to repeat with its second straight city championship, having bolstered its lineup considerably. The team may be weakened by the absence of Lowell "Rib" Allen who is playing varsity ball at Mount Union while Bob Cope, last year's pivotman, is a regular at the Alliance college. In addition to Allen the Eagles have Max Caplan, player-manager, Herman Litty, Ted Schwartzoff, Nat Caplan and others.

Harry Vegel and Clarence Siding will again be mainstays of the Electric Furnace team with Andy Flip, Flash Miller, Ted Kirkbride, George Schmid and Charne Quinn headlining the roster of Perry McArthur's Poses.

There is every indication that the coming season will be one of the most hard-fought campaigns ever seen in municipal cage competition. The reduction of the circuit from six to four teams will prove an aid in that it will strengthen each team.

The Class A circuit will continue activities until March 10, ending with the annual titular playoff between winners of laurels in the first and second half. The Class B race is split up into two leagues, the National and American, five teams being entered in each. The Class B schedule will be announced Monday.

Early To Referee
George "Sim" Early, popular basketball umpire, will make his debut as court official, having been signed by Joe M. Kelley to succeed Ray Rockback. Early made his appearance as referee of games played at the building this week and gave satisfactory exhibitions.

The Class A schedule for the first half follows:

Tuesday, Dec. 16—Golden Eagle vs. Furnace; Electric vs. Florists.
December 23—McArthur vs. Golden Eagle; Electric vs. Furnace.
December 30—McArthur vs. Furnace; Electric vs. Golden Eagle.
January 6—McArthur vs. Electric; Furnace vs. Golden Eagle.
January 13—McArthur vs. Golden Eagle; Electric vs. Furnace.
January 20—McArthur vs. Furnace; Electric vs. Golden Eagle.

BAT BATTALINO RETAINS TITLE

Champion Disappoints In Winning Victory Over Cuban Negro Flash

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Some thousands of fight fans were wondering today whether Bat Battalino, Hartford's favorite fighting son, had been vastly under-rated as a champion or whether "all through" should be written on the long record of the young Cuban Negro, Kid Chocolate.

Wins Decisively
Battalino, whose performances had failed to impress the fight faithful, made a highly successful defense of his featherweight title in last night's battle before 17,000 Christmas fund contributors at Madison Square Garden. Yet after watching him pound the Cuban 15 rounds to win the unanimous decision of the referee and two judges, the fans still were not sure whether it was Bat's strength or the "Kee" weakness that brought the result.

Although he lasted the full 15 rounds, the longest route he ever had tried, Chocolate's third successive defeat was much the same as the first, when Jack Kid Berg ended his string of over 100 victories.

Champion Floored
The slim Cuban Negro started the fans in the very first round when he sent the champion down for a count of nine. The poetry of boxing motion compared to Battalino's clumsy strength the Kee maneuvered his opponent into position and lashed out with a pair of solid clouts that sent Bat down but did not hurt him.

From that minute it was all Battalino. Boring in, his arms wrapped around his head, taking Chocolate's blows on his elbows and firing with both hands to the body whenever he got within range, the champion seemed to grow stronger as the fight went on. A great rally toward the end which won him the eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth rounds, turned the tide in his favor. The Associated Press score card gave Battalino eight rounds and Chocolate seven.

Fight Body Requests Georgian Be Awarded Heavyweight Laurels

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—W. L. "Young" Stribling, of Macon, Ga., has completed his conquest of the Chicago heavyweight field by a decisive ten round victory over "Tuffy" Griffiths, the tough youth from Sioux City, Ia. As a result he may be recognized by the National Boxing association at least, as the champion of the world.

The little pride of the South, a 2 to 1 favorite before the battle, in the Chicago Stadium last night left no doubt as to his superiority. He won the unanimous decision of Referee Ed Purdy and the judges.

Griffiths Shows Well
Stribling was favored to win by a knockout, probably because of his sensational one-round elimination of Otto Von Porat in the same ring several months ago, and he made at least one desperate bid to stop the Sioux City youngster. Griffiths, however, fought a clever defensive fight and his left hand, while it inflicted little damage, ruined many of Stribling's maneuvers.

The bout drew a somewhat disappointing crowd of 15,570 spectators who gave up $88,297.16. Major Gen. John V. Clinch, president of the National Boxing commission, and chairman of the Illinois State Athletic commission, announced he had recommended that the N. B. A. recognize the winner as champion of the world, as Max Schmeling had failed to defend the title within six months of winning it. However, the recommendation must be approved by each member state in the N. B. A.

Tuffy On Defense
The Georgian fought a calculated battle after the first round when the Iowa cut loose with a surprisingly effective left hand assault, meanwhile keeping his jaw carefully protected from blasts such as lowered Von Porat. From there on, Stribling concentrated most of his attack on Tuffy's middle and inflicted a lot of damage. He kept Griffiths well tied up most of the way and indulged in what many of the customers considered unnecessary roughness.

The Georgian's big effort came in the ninth round when he clipped Griffiths with a whistling right uppercut. Griffiths dove in and grabbed Stribling's right arm but took a half dozen short left hooks before he could take charge of the Southerner's left.

Ringside observers credited Stribling with six rounds and Griffiths with three, with one even. Stribling weighed 184½ and Griffiths 166 pounds.

Cueists Advance To Tie With Greenleaf

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Making it their business to see that the defending champion, Ralph Greenleaf, does not have a runaway in the world's pocket billiards championship tournament, Arthur Woods, New York veteran, and Ervin Rudolph, Chicago star, have gained a tie for first place.

Each has won three straight matches in the tournament. Woods and Rudolph turned in their third victories yesterday to join the title holder, who had taken the lead Thursday.

"A straight line is the shortest distance..."

YOU need a flashlight or an alarm clock. That's one point in a common geometrical problem. Somewhere a manufacturer is making, a store is offering for sale, exactly the flashlight or alarm clock you should have. That's the second point in your private problem. . . . And advertising is the straight line that shows the shortest distance between the two!

Day after day, in the advertising pages, you'll find straight lines drawn direct to the products you need. Look for them. Follow them. They may save you hours of searching!

And more than time, they'll save you money. Advertised products are those whose honest worth has made them popular. Merchants and manufacturers who advertise regularly have passed the public's test of fair dealing and reliability. By studying their announcements in the light of your own needs, you can buy most wisely and well.

MOLLY, VERBOSE PARROT, MAY BE NAMED 'SAPPHO'

Akron Bird Is Possessor Of Extraordinary Vocabulary

(By Associated Press)

AKRON, Dec. 13.—On a sea-green perch in a bright sun room sits W. A. Johnson's verbose parrot. Because she is believed to have the most extensive bird vocabulary in Ohio, Johnson is considering christening her. At present she is known by the very ordinary appellation "Polly." "Polly" in Parrotidom equals Smith or Jones in the human family. But Johnson is convinced his parrot has the oratorical qualifications of Mark Anthony or Cicero. She also has a feeling for poetry. This may lead Johnson to call her "Sappho." Her patriotism might justify "Molly Pitcher" or "Betsy Ross." It is a great problem—and much concerned in the matter is the parrot.

Johnson acquired the remarkable bird two years ago. She was to keep company with a canary. But soon she became the master-mind in the sunroom, and the canary developed an inferiority complex.

The parrot at first adhered to its Mexican teachings and cackled little Spanish phrases that conjured up pictures of balcony windows, curtains and emeralds. But she soon became an enthusiastic American and uttered a college yell or two. The rest of the English language seemed simple.

She has no compunctions about advising strangers to "Jump off the long, high bridge." Probably she saw a bridge in her infancy in Mexico, Johnson suggests. Another weird ejaculation sometimes rings from the perch.

"On your way to Japan," she screams.

Perhaps, Johnson surmises, her ancestors sailed on private ships—offering advice to peg-legged, patched buccaners. The bird recites poetry individually and sings after a fashion. Johnson is teaching her more every day. Her present vocabulary is about 300 words.

"What's the matter now?" she queries each evening as the cover is slipped over her perch and darkness shrouds the sunroom.

SANTA TO MAKE TRIP IN PLANE

Reindeers Give Way To New Travel Mode In Denver Plan

DENVER, Dec. 13.—Even old Santa Claus, traditional driver of eight reindeer, must yield to the advances in transportation. The merry old gentleman, who stood with his reindeer atop the Greek theatre in Denver's famous Civic Center last year will arrive by airplane this year, according to present plans being made for the decoration of Denver.

An evergreen forest again will decorate the top of the Voorhies Memorial arch on the opposite side of the Civic Center. A Christmas tree 100 feet high will stand in the middle of the Civic Center, with decorations as brilliant as electricians can make them.

The lights on Denver's Christmas display will be turned on the day before Christmas.

HUNTER FIGHTS MOUNTAIN LION

Marksmen Is Saved As He Fires His Final Bullet

LOVELAND, COLO., Dec. 13.—Losing a footrace with a wounded mountain lion would have proved fatal to Fred Hyatt, Loveland hunter, but for a single bullet.

Hyatt's bounds freed the lion after tracking it for several miles through a mountain canon west of here. Hyatt shot the lion twice and waited for it to fall from the tree.

Instead of falling, the lion sprang from the tree in the general direction of the spot where Hyatt was standing. Hyatt lost no time in getting under way. He expected the animal to drop dead after a few leaps.

The lion showed no signs of dropping, however, but gained steadily on Hyatt. At last, the lion was about to overtake him. Hyatt fired the last bullet in his gun and killed the animal.

Hyatt has killed 37 mountain lions near his home ten miles west of here.

ATHLETIC UNIT IS ORGANIZED AT FAIRFIELD

Books, Sewing Machines Purchased By Centralized School

Launched on its fifteenth week of the present school year, Fairfield Township's Centralized school can report progress along many lines of activity. Miss Noble as librarian, assisted by Wilbur Meiser, announces the purchase of the books from the Junior Literary Guild which will be added during the year. Miss Derringer and her "Home Ec" girls are happy over the addition of two new sewing machines which are equipped with electrical attachments. Mr. Shoemaker and his biology class are busy with an incubator preparing their own future chicken dinners. The state "every pupil" test has been given as required.

Athletic Unit Organized
The Athletic Association has organized with Donald Rupert as president, Lois McFerran as secretary, and Carl McFerran as treasurer. Miss Derringer and Mr. Shoemaker are coaches. The Columbiana gymnasium has been secured for practice one night each week. Two games have been played; one with North Lima at Fairfield resulting in a victory for the guests, score for girls being 35 to 20 and for boys 25 to 18.

The second game was played last Friday night at Salineville when the Salineville team preserved their usual record by defeating the Fairfield girls 25 to 20 and the boys 22 to 16. Fairfield girls included Richardson, Brinker, Bell, McFerran, Moore, Firestone, with Janet Burt substituting; boys who played were Rupert, Scott, Reareck, Garrod, Webster, with Robert Weber as substitute; Grace Moore and Donald Rupert are team captains.

Officers Are Elected
The Freshman class in the high school chose Willard Ferrall for president; Verne Hawkins, vice president; Alberta Rupert secretary; Madeline Anglemeyer, treasurer; and Mr. Shoemaker as sponsor. The officers for the Sophomore class are: Wilbur Weber, president; vice president, Ina Mae Eckert; secretary, Howard Blosser, treasurer; Miss Derringer, sponsor. The class edit a mimeographed paper each week called "The Sophomore Signal."

The Junior class is headed by Donald Rupert with Carl McFerran as vice president; Alta Brinker, secretary; Katherine Whitacre, treasurer; Miss Noble, sponsor. Senior class officers include: Robert Weber, president; Carl Fisher, vice president; Lois McFerran, secretary; Wilbur Meiser, treasurer; Miss Noble, sponsor. The class roll includes 10 girls and 12 boys: Beulah Bell, Merle Richardson, Hazel Firestone, Emma Mae Kaufman, Leonore McCammon, Grace Moore, Zelma Rehner, Lois McFerran, Mary Catherine Schockley, Neta Sirey, Carl Fisher, Herbert Scott, Merle Esswein, Charles Reed, Wilbur Garrod, Howard Kessler, James Sittler, Kenneth Reareck, Robert Weber, Wilbur Meiser, Victor Rupert and Max Gard. Juniors and Seniors have a weekly paper called "Upper Class Echo."

Talk By Pastor
During the height of the national football season, Rev. C. R. McKean of the Methodist Episcopal church, Columbiana, gave a splendid talk to the high school on "Dropping the Punt of Life." On Dec. 5th, Raphael Emanuel of Mesopotamia spoke to the group on life in his native country. Thursday night and Friday of this week the auditorium will be occupied by the Fairfield Township Farmers' institute with the school children having prominent parts in the program, especially on Friday morning.

The P. T. A. has held two meetings at six-week intervals and the third is scheduled for Dec. 16th with the program committee headed by Mrs. Willis Rupert who has promised special numbers by pupils and other entertainment. After the meeting a cover dish lunch will be served in the gymnasium.

Attendance Good
Attendance of pupils during the first two months of school was remarkably good, averaging about 96 per cent for the second month. Contrary to most town schools the attendance has a higher average than of the grades, probably owing to the distance traveled which necessitates more small children remaining at home when but slightly indisposed. Seniors winning signal honors in 4-H club work this year were Wilbur Meiser who was nominated by the county as its candidate for honors among the boys; and Beulah Bell who was selected by the state 4-H club dept. as the recipient of the $50 cash prize given by a Chicago company as well as the trip to the national 4-H club leaders' congress which was held in Chicago, Dec. 1st, to 6th.

SANTA CLARA, Cal.—The black walnut of California is properly named because it is the Black Sheep of the walnut family, according to L. R. Cody, Santa Clara county horticultural commissioner. The black walnut shell is hard to crack so the nuts are not acceptable commercially but the trees are used for ornamental purposes. The result is that these trees, in some instances become breeding places for pests which spread to the commercial groves of English walnut trees.

MOVIES

'King Of Jazz'

Paul Whiteman and his orchestra are starting in "King of Jazz" at the State theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz" and the appearance of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in "Ouch-Koo" are headline talking attractions at Salem theaters next week. Whiteman, in his first appearance as a movie star, appears with his orchestra three days starting Monday at the Grand while the great Wheeler-Woolsey laugh vehicle plays at the Grand during the same period.

"Men of the North," probably Gilbert Roland's best picture, will show at the Grand three days starting Thursday. Helen Trice, a lass with rising popularity, is shown in the leading role in "The Grand Parade" at the Royal Friday and Saturday while the State features "The Dancers," starring Lois Moran, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Tonight's Features
William Powell and Kay Francis play leads in "For the Defense," showing for the last time at the State tonight. "A Devil with Women," starring Victor McLaglen, is at the Grand while "Oh, Yeah," a laugh drama of note, plays the Royal.

Walter Byron, Lois Moran and Phillips Holmes are the leading players in "The Dancers." Miss Moran is again seen in the role of a modern girl beset with love's enigmas, Byron portraying the role of a young sophisticate in love with the heroine while Holmes is an ambitious youngster who leaves his English home and childhood sweetheart to seek his fortune in Canada. Wheeler and Woolsey form what is without doubt one of talkiedom's comedy pairs. They reach further heights in "Cuckoo" which also features little Dorothy Lee of stage fame and sophisticated June Clyde. Ivan Lebedoff Hugh Trevor and Mitchell Lewis are in strong supporting roles.

Drama Of North
"Men of the North," as the title implies, is a vivid drama of the north country with Roland playing opposite Barbara Leonard, a newcomer to talkie fame. The play deals with the adventures of a French trapper, wrongly suspected of theft, who is dogged through the snows of the Canadian country by the Northwest Mounted. His adventures, the dramatic love theme running through the plot and other incidents make the picture entertaining.

"King of Jazz" has no individual highlights but features a great cast, among which John Boles, Laura La Plante, Jeanette Loff, Stanley Smith, Glenn Tryon, Jeanie Lang and Whiteman and his orchestra are the highlights. George Gershwin's famous "Rhapsody in Blue" is one of the numbers played by the orchestra.

Run-Tin-Tin, canine hero of filmdom, makes his debut in serial form, playing in "The Lone Defender" at the Grand starting Thursday. The picture will be a ten-chapter affair.

"The Grand Parade" is another backstage opus that shows old-time minstrel shows in their greatest glory. With Miss Twelveteens are starred Fred Scott, Richard Carle and Mary Astaire.

City Hospital Notes

Two patients have entered the Salem City hospital for surgical treatment. They are: Mrs. Edith Gow and Miss Alice Heckert of Salem.

BERLIN—Eleven years ago two women were delivered of sons at almost exactly the same time, in a clinic in the Rhineland. The two women, their children with them, met again quite by chance a few days ago for the first time since leaving the clinic. One of the women noticed that the other's son bore an astonishing resemblance to her husband. They are making inquiries to find out whether their children could possibly have been switched after birth.

Today's Pattern

Charm and simplicity go hand in hand with this dainty dress for a young girl. The cape collar continues, to form a long front rever that is most becoming, while the full skirt lends grace and beauty. The crushed girdle is a youthful detail. Pattern 1810 may be worn with sleeves, or sleeveless. It is lovely of silk crepe, georgette, organdy, voile or dimity. A gaily colored print or a soft pastel tone might be chosen. May be obtained only in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8 requires 2 7/8 yards of 39-inch fabric.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

COUPON

This pattern will be delivered upon receipt of 15c. coin or stamps, carefully wrapped. Latest Fashion Book 10c. Send all orders to SALEM NEWS PATTERN DEPARTMENT, 243 WEST 17TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Talk By Pastor

During the height of the national football season, Rev. C. R. Mc-Kean of the Methodist Episcopal church, Columbiana, gave a splendid talk to the high school on "Dropping the Punt of Life." On Dec. 5th, Raphael Emanuel of Mesopotamia spoke to the group on life in his native country. Thursday night and Friday of this week the auditorium will be occupied by the Fairfield Township Farmers' institute with the school children having prominent parts in the program, especially on Friday morning.

The P. T. A. has held two meetings at six-week intervals and the third is scheduled for Dec. 16th with the program committee headed by Mrs. Willis Rupert who has promised special numbers by pupils and other entertainment. After the meeting a cover dish lunch will be served in the gymnasium.

Attendance of pupils during the first two months of school was remarkably good, averaging about 96 per cent for the second month. Contrary to most town schools the attendance has a higher average than of the grades, probably owing to the distance traveled which necessitates more small children remaining at home when but slightly indisposed.

Seniors winning signal honors in 4-H club work this year were Wilbur Meiser who was nominated by the county as its candidate for honors among the boys; and Beulah Bell who was selected by the state 4-H club dept. as the recipient of the $50 cash prize given by a Chicago company as well as the trip to the national 4-H club leaders' congress which was held in Chicago, Dec. 1st, to 6th.

SANTA CLARA, Cal.—The black walnut of California is properly named because it is the Black Sheep of the walnut family, according to
L. R. Cody, Santa Clara county horticultural commissioner. The black walnut shell is hard to crack so the nuts are not acceptable com-mercially but the trees are used for ornamental purposes. The result is that these trees, in some instances become breeding places for pests which spread to the commercial groves of English walnut trees.

BERLIN—When the body of Captain Waldemar Krah, a former prominent naval officer, was found with a bullet through the head, his miracle was still in his eye.
